NEW YORK (AP) — B. Brewster Jennings, 70, board chairman of Mobil Oil Corp. from 1953 until his retirement in 1958, died Wednesday after a brief illness. Jennings was president and chairman of the executive committee of Mobil from 1944 until he became chief executive officer in 1953.

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Tully C. Garner, 72, only child of the late John Nance Garner, two-term vice president under Franklin D. Roosevelt, died Wednesday, apparently of a heart attack. He was an investment banker and businessman. The former vice president died last November.

PARIS (AP) — Marcel Duchamp, 81, who painted the controversial "Nude Descending a Staircase," died Tuesday night. Duchamp's portrayal of superimposed mechanical figures in the painting created a scandal when it first was shown in 1913. He was sometimes called the father of pop art.

NEW YORK (AP) — Playwright Marc Connelly, author of "The Green Pastures," a comedy that won the Pulitzer Prize for 1930, keeps busy with writing chores at the age of 77.

Connelly said Wednesday he is preparing for publication on Monday of his memoirs, "Voices Offstage."

After his book makes its bow, Connelly said, he plans to go to Milwaukee in November for a revival of the play "Dulcy," which he co-authored with the late George S. Kaufman.

cheers and some boos from a Norfolk crowd of about 5,000 people, Nixon remarked: "No, wait. If he gets going he might come in second."

The 11 states on Nixon's television list tonight are Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Maryland.

His major thrust is to fend off Wallace in states where the third party contender now is considered by southern politicians to be his chief rival, states such as North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee.

Nixon has campaigned in all three Virginia was Wednesday's target. In Norfolk, the Republican tackled Humphrey by name, Wallace by implication.

"If you don't like Humphrey's policy today," Nixon said, "wait till tomorrow."

Nixon, in a Navy town, suggested that the Democrats have permitted a "submarine gap" to develop, giving the Soviet Union an advantage in that field of weaponry.

He said the next eight years will be the period of greatest danger of world war because of the threat of growing Soviet power and because the Communist Chinese will be developing an independent nuclear capability.

"I've heard one candidate suggest, 'well, all you have to do is go out and get all these State Department bureaucrats and throw their briefcases into the Potomac,'" Nixon said.

Warren to Stay on as Court Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The withdrawal of Abe Fortas' nomination to be chief justice has left President Johnson with three choices.

Chief Justice Earl Warren said earlier he'd stay on if Fortas weren't confirmed by the Senate, removing any need for quick action.

He will be on the bench when the Supreme Court opens Monday.

Warren said last July his open-ended retirement—which was seized as a major issue by Fortas opponents—avoids "the danger of a 4-to-4 decision" in the Supreme Court term beginning Monday. Johnson could submit a new nomination before Congress adjourns, or make a recess appointment that would be subject to confirmation in the Senate's next session. And he could simply do nothing.

The men who spearheaded the opposition to the Fortas nomination and cheered its withdrawal Wednesday are for this last alternative. They promised to fight any attempt by Johnson to name a new chief justice.

"It would be the better part of wisdom for him not to send up a new nomination," said Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., who started the drive against Fortas.

"We are on the eve of a decision by the people concerning new government," he said.

Asked if he thought Johnson would offer another chief justice nomination, Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., said: "I very much hope he doesn't."

In 1960, Johnson as majority leader supported a resolution that Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., guided through the Senate opposing any recess Supreme Court appointments by outgoing President Eisenhower.

Warren told a news conference last July: "I am obliged to stay on. I suppose that under the oath I am obliged to perform the duties of my office. I neither expect nor hope that would be a fact." He said then he expected Fortas' confirmation.

He faced newsmen Wednesday at a ceremony marking the signing of a Redwood National Park Bill but refused to comment on the nomination withdrawal.

The fact that Warren told President Johnson he would retire "at your pleasure" was a target of much criticism in the Senate. Critics contended a specific date should have been set.

Fortas' opponents also criticized the associate justice for accepting $15,000 to lecture at American University, for advising President Johnson and for some Supreme Court decisions, particularly on obscenity cases.

In asking the President to withdraw the nomination, the 58-year-old jurist, appointed in 1955, said he wanted to avoid further attacks on the court.

He said pushing the nomination further "would result in a continuation of the attacks upon the court which have character-

Crank Thinks Youths 18 Should Be Able to Vote, Nothing Else

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Marion H. Crank, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, says he thinks 18 year olds should have the right to vote, but not to buy beer.

Crank said Wednesday over the "Arkansas Jaycees Presents" program taped for showing tonight over KATV that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's remark that if 18 year olds were old enough to fight for their country, they were old enough to buy beer was a "rather irresponsible statement."

Crank said Rockefeller's remarks—growing out of a statement in which the governor said he believed the right of 18 year olds to vote should carry with it other privileges and responsibilities—did more "to damage the effort of young people who are trying to get the right to vote than anything thus far."

"What would happen with your automobile rates?" he asked if 18 year olds could buy beer. He said young persons were responsible for high automobile insurance rates.

He termed as "ridiculous" Rockefeller's remarks that Crank's campaign personnel included persons involved with the insolvent Arkansas Loan & Thrift Corp.

"I knew nothing about the (Arkansas) Loan & Thrift, and I don't think Mr. Rockefeller knew anything about it either," Crank said.

"It certainly involved some Democrats but I don't think I could hardly be held accountable for all of the problems of Democrats in Arkansas," he said.

Crank, who has often criticized Rockefeller for filling positions in state government with persons from out of state, said that there were some instances in highly skilled fields where out of states might be needed to adequately fill the jobs. But he said he thought at least 30 men in Arkansas were capable of administering the penitentiary system.

rendered with his girl at gunpoint during the nocturnal shooting.

The officer threw them in the youth's face and exclaimed: "Communism! You read this stuff. That's why people are dying out there, because you read this stuff."

The International Olympic Committee called a meeting today to discuss the violence and its possible effect on the 1968 summer games, scheduled to open in the Mexican capital in nine days.

The government spokesman, presidential press secretary Fernando Garza, said of the Olympics: "There is no danger. All necessary precautions have been taken."

He said the fighting began when "one group of students began firing at another." He added: The end has come to this group of militant students. A cleaning out has been made already."

Firing in the area of the Plaza of the Three Cultures near downtown continued sporadically into the early morning hours. Soldiers said the main pockets of student resistance were two buildings in the adjoining Plateo apartment district.

An editor for the newspaper El Universal said his reporters told him of soldiers finding 20 bodies in upper stories of the Social Security Hospital, where snipers had been seen firing.

Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, the defense secretary, said he had orders to crush the student uprising at any cost.

One newsmen said hundreds of persons were lying in the plaza after the first volley of gunfire.

Throughout the evening, snipers with automatic weapons fired from apartment windows and troops brought armored cars into the battle and poured machine-gun fire back into the high-rise buildings. The troops began clearing out the buildings about four hours after the battle began. Hundreds of residents already had fled.

But elsewhere, students roamed the streets with 22-caliber automatic pistols and Molotov cocktails, setting dozens of buses and cars afire. An army official said para-troop Gen. Jose Hernandez Toledo, who led troops who occupied the University of Mexico last month, was critically wounded.

A secret police agent said snipers were shooting at ambulance drivers and "we can't get in and pick up the dead bodies lying in the plaza."

About 6,000 striking students had gathered in the plaza for a march to the Santo Tomas Vocational School, scene of the major fighting in a battle that left 15 dead in the night of Sept. 23.

Because of troops along the route, student leaders called off the march. But then four flares fell into the plaza, scattering the crowd, and a soldier appeared around the corner of a church.

A shot rang out, presumably from a sniper firing at the soldier, and the plaza instantly was filled with a roar of automatic weapons fire.

Associated Press newsmen in various positions, some pinned down by the heavy fire, reported seeing dead persons lying near them.

And then the inevitable note of injury creeps into his tone: "You're not the kind of a guy who forgets his old pals, are you?"

Old Pal, the devil. All you want to do is to wrap your hands around his throat for the public humiliation he has caused you. Now that you have found out who he is, you can't wait to start forgetting him again.

It would seem but ordinary courtesy when you meet someone you haven't seen for a long time to mention your own name first and save him from possible embarrassment. But the world is full of characters who want to make a guessing game of their own identity. They appear to get a positive pleasure out of making their victims squirm.

Often they turn out to be people with utterly forgettable personalities, and your memory has done you a favor by balking and stubbornly refusing to recall them. The only thing that would make them memorable would be to have their names tattooed on their foreheads in purple ink, followed by the words: "I'm a bore—beware."

The best way to deal with one of these social pests when he plants himself in front of you and asks, "Who am I?" is to answer, "Your phase is familiar,

SHE HATES THE BED SHE MADE

Dear Helen: I am 18 and got married two weeks ago. My husband is 17. I don't love him, Helen. I told my mother this a day before our marriage but she made me go through with it. All he thinks about is sex, and I can't stand him.

The boy I really love just came back to town. I loved him for a year and four months, but while he was gone, I made this mistake. There's nothing I can do about the baby that is on the way, but I have to keep on with a guy I loathe? The other boy wants to marry me and take care of the baby. —TIED OF HIM

Dear Tied: Seems to me you're too mistake-prone for an adult decision. If you can't stand the bed you made, leave it, but don't jump into another until you are ready for marriage. At this point, I think both boys are better off with you. —H.

Dear Helen: Is there really such a big generation gap, or is it just that the kids who have decided to leave society get all the interviews? Most of my friends feel as I do: We respect the "over-30" people, enjoy talking with many of them and, while we don't always agree, we don't feel estranged.

All it takes is communication, or that newer popular word, "dialogue." Too bad we can't all find such a terrific common goal — like working toward a better world — that we'd forget ages. K. R.

Dear K.R.: Don't say "Too bad we can't..." Say instead, "We will!" And keep communicating! —H.

Dear Helen: My mother is Polish and my father is Italian. How do you think I feel when my friends hit me with Those Jokes? Can't they pick on some other nationality? —POL-IT but I hoped you'd outgrow it." Then walk away. You may make an enemy, but don't worry. He probably isn't the kind of a guy who would mention you favorably in his will anyway.

Dear P.: A better question:

Can't we pick up a kinder form of than ethnic jokes? What started out funny is getting pretty bitter. —H.

Dear Helen: My parents are going to be away on a week's vacation. My sister and I will stay with friends. What my folks don't know is that my sister, who hangs out with a wild crowd, is planning a party at our house while they are gone. She's new in the gang and wants to make an impression. We just got new furniture and I know they will wreck something, besides maybe steal stuff. I found out about the party accidentally. Should I tell my parents and spoil their vacation? —LITTLE SISTER

Dear Sis: Better a spoiled vacation than a wrecked house. Maybe your parents can save both — plus your sister's reputation — if they crack down now and get her back on the right track. —H.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The new shows are interesting to sample, but it is good, too, to see what has happened to some of the old friends on the network schedules returning for another season.

Clarence, the gentle lion with a sight problem, and Judy the intelligent chimp are back for another season of harmless nature-making as "Daktari" starts its fourth CBS season.

In addition to moving from Tuesday to Wednesday nights, the show has added a couple of characters to the cast. One is a cute, freckle-faced little girl, Erin Moran, who plays the veterinarian's ward. That rounds out the series nicely because with the animals, the doctor, the pretty young daughter and the handsome young vet's assistant, the program has something for just about anybody.

Wednesday night's episode was typical. Dr. Marsh Tracy, the vet studying animal life in Africa, decides to make a novel experiment, testing what he called "the territorial imperative in lions."

One shudders to think what a scientist would feel about the test's validity since it consisted of taking Clarence, the cross-eyed lion, to a nearby water hole. There Dr. Tracy explained to the lion in simple English that the water hole was his domain. In "Daktari" people talk to the animals all the time—and the animals listen and comprehend.

When a pride of lions comes to the water, Clarence chooses to retreat instead of fight. This leads Dr. Tracy to conclude that Clarence was not the right lion for the test. But then the lions invade his animal study center hoping for a square meal of aoudads—an animal most of us provincials thought existed only in the minds of crossword puzzle makers.

Well, sir, old Clarence gave a mighty roar, tangled fiercely with the leader of the lions and chased them all out of the preserve. Dr. Tracy then observed that Clarence really would fight to protect his home. Then he applied the principal to humans, giving the whole show a nice little philosophical touch.

Gibson Does Repeat Job in Series Win

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Just as he did last year, St. Louis' Bob Gibson has turned a potentially great pitching duel into a one-sided affair and confronted the opposition with the problem of finding another road to a World Series victory.

Gibson, who completely dominated his seventh-game match with Boston's Jim Lonborg last year, struck out a Series record 17 and allowed just five hits as the Cardinals won Wednesday's opener with a 4-0 decision over Denny McLain and the Detroit Tigers.

Th 32-year-old right-hander so overwhelmed the Tigers—he permitted two men on base in only one inning—that they may be faced with the problem of how to lose to Gibson and still win the Series.

Mickey Lolich was the Detroit starter for today's second game, and Earl Wilson is Manager Mayo Smith's choice for Game No. 3 in Detroit Saturday.

Thus, now that the Tigers have seen what they can't do against Gibson, Lolich and Wilson have the task of trying to do to Nelson Briles and Ray Washburn what Gibson did to McLain.

McLain, meanwhile, had the problem of getting over his anger following Wednesday's loss. Smith pulled the 31-game winner for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning.

"Yes, I was very surprised," the 24-year-old right-hander said, commenting on his early exit. "You don't pitch 340 innings and then get yanked out."

Asked if he might talk to his manager about it, McLain replied, "I just may do that."

The Tigers, however, not only have to talk about what to do to get past Gibson, but they also have to do more than they did Wednesday.

The Cardinal ace struck out seven of the first nine batters he faced, then eclipsed Sandy Koufax' Series record of 15 strikeouts by fanning the side in the ninth.

The victory also was his sixth straight complete game triumph in Series play, and that meant two more marks—a share of the record for six straight victories and sole ownership of the mark for consecutive complete game victories.

Gibson, in fact, hasn't lost or been knocked out of a game since his first Series appearance in 1964 against the New York Yankees.

Gibson, however, wasn't the only asset the Cardinals displayed in the first game. They stole three bases in four attempts, and Lou Brock had only one of them. Julian Javier and Curt Flood got the others, which is another thing Detroit must worry about.

At the same time, though, Smith was rewarded for his bold experiment of playing center fielder Mickey Stanley at short in order to get Al Kaline into the line-up. Stanley played flawlessly in the field while rapping two hits, and Kaline doubled in the sixth, the only inning the Tigers had two men on base.

"His pitching was on a par with anything I've ever seen," said Kaline, a 16-year veteran. "He had an excellent beaking ball. I know he's a great pitcher, probably one of the greatest."

"I didn't feel strong, but I did have real good control," said Gibson, who posted 13 shutouts among his 22 victories during the season. "You know, getting more strikeouts doesn't necessarily mean you pitched a better game."

No matter how Gibson graded his effort, it was far superior to McLain's. The 24-year-old right-hander issued two walks that contributed to St. Louis' three-run outburst in the fourth inning.

Following the passes to Roger Maris and Tim Lincecum, Mike Shannon singled to left for one run and Javier later knocked in two more runs with a single. Brock hit a 3-2 pitch off reliever Pat Dobson for a homer in the seventh.

"I just had real bad control," McLain said. "There's nothing else I can say. It probably was the worst rhythm I've had in a long time."

Despite the outcome, Smith plans to send McLain against

Gibson again in the fourth game Sunday.

Shoats, SMU Meet Tonight in Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — The Arkansas Shoats attempt to break a three-game losing streak against the Southern Methodist freshmen in a football game here tonight.

SMU extended its winning streak over the Arkansas freshmen to three games last year with a 17-6 victory. The series between the two teams is tied at 4-4-2.

This will open the season for both teams. The Shoats will play a five-game schedule this year under freshman Coach Wilson Matthews.

Gus Risher of Brinkley and Walter Nelson of Little Rock will share the quarterbacking chores for Arkansas. Steve Jones of Memphis and Steve Hockersmith of Little Rock will share the tailback spot.

Other starters will include Mike Saint of Texarkana at fullback and Robert Dew of Warren at flanker.

Practice Improved, Says Broyles

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks preparing for their Southwest Conference opener Saturday night against Texas Christian, showed good attitude and effort to Coach Frank Broyles in Wednesday's workout.

"We had an improved practice," the coach said, adding that the receivers looked good. The Razorbacks work out in sweat clothes today and Friday, then fly to Arlington, Tex., Friday before meeting TCU.

Strikeout Record Set by Gibson

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Gibson spent the evening before his first start in the World Series at a small Italian restaurant with his family. Denny McLain spent it playing the organ at a local night spot.

And, maybe, that's why Gibson was the hero of Wednesday's opening World Series game, winning his confrontation with Detroit's 31-game victor while striking out a record 17 batters in St. Louis' 4-0 triumph.

A towel slung over his left shoulder and sipping some soda pop, Gibson talked quietly, and without any bravado, in the St. Louis dressing room about one of the most dramatic moments in World Series history—and the night before.

"I didn't do anything special Tuesday night," Gibson said. "Went to the airport about 8:30 to meet my little girl, Renee, coming in from Omaha. Then we all—my wife, daughter, a friend of hers and one of the neighbor's boys—went to an Italian restaurant for some spaghetti."

"My wife tries to stay away from any baseball talk," Gibson explained. "We just talked about what the kids did wrong that day."

If the kids did anything wrong at home Tuesday, Gibson certainly didn't do anything wrong on the mound Wednesday. He set the Tigers down on five hits, tied a Series record with his sixth consecutive victory and broke the strikeout record of 15 set by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1963.

"In the early-innings I didn't think I was pitching strong," the 32-year-old Gibson said in the dressing room, his sweat-soaked cap still jammed on his head. "I asked Tim (catcher Tim McCarver) about it, and he agreed I wasn't as strong."

But over the first three innings, Gibson struck out seven Tigers.

"I didn't feel strong, but I did have real good control," said Gibson.

And so, Gibson proceeded to mow down the Tigers, getting Al Kaline looking in the fourth and Don Wert on a called strike in the fifth.

Then, his aching arm, tired by 305 innings of work during a regular season that brought him 22 victories—13 by shutout—began to bother him.

"I got tired about the sixth and my arm ached," Gibson explained. "I guess every pitcher complains about his arm. It aches all the time—sometimes in three spots, all around the elbow. It never really goes away."

"But I never change anything."

The only thing that changed was Gibson's rising strikeout total—14 after eight innings.

He needed on to Koufax's record, two to break it and three to go home.

"I knew I had struck out a lot," Gibson admitted. "But I didn't know how many. I really didn't."

Mickey Stanley led off the ninth with a single, but Al Kaline became strikeout victim No. 15 on a 1-2 pitch. Then Norm Cash came to the plate. The count went to 1 and 2 before Cash fouled off three straight pitches and then took another ball.

Gibson then fired another—and Cash swung and missed. No. 16.

"That's when I knew something was going on," Gibson said.

He didn't notice the crowd rising to give him a standing ovation. But he did notice McCarver.

"Tim came out in front of the plate and wouldn't go back," said Gibson. "I didn't know what to make of it, so I looked at the scoreboard and then I knew."

The message board spelled out the fact that Gibson had broken the record Koufax had set against the New York Yankees.

And, then, Willie Horton stepped to the plate. The count went to 2 and 2. Gibson fired—and umpire Tom Gorman signaled for a called third strike. No. 17.

It took 144 pitches.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The trap is set for Fort Smith Northside.

The Grizzlies went through 15 consecutive opponents before Pine Bluff tied them 3-3 last week. The tie dropped Northside into the No. 2 spot in the Associated Press Arkansas High School football poll.

Now, the Grizzlies tangle with unbeaten Springdale, ranked third in the poll.

And, to make matters worse for Northside, Springdale was idle last week, giving the Bulldogs a chance to thoroughly prepare for Friday night.

Coach Bill Stancil is familiar with the problem and figures to have the Grizzlies ready.

Northside 13, Springdale 7. Huntsville and Bentonville get together at Huntsville Friday night with the lead in Region 1AA at stake. Both are undefeated. Huntsville has given up only six points in four outings, but Bentonville thrashed a highly-regarded Rogers team last week.

Malvern, Hope Tangle Here Friday

By RALPH ROUNTON

Star Sports Writer

As the song goes, "look out, here comes tomorrow" with the Malvern Leopards right on its heels to make a date with the haunted Hope Bobcats in Hammons Stadium.

Leopard fans would probably sneer at the haunted title given the Bobcats, and in truth Malvern is just as deserving of the honor. But come kickoff time it'll be me versus you, meaning a battle to the finish or until somebody proves his claim to be king of the mountain-top.

There are few mountains that Leopards Coach David Alpe hasn't ruled over, but one he has missed is the 4-AA throne. Through the years Alpe has commanded respect of his football mind, and his wide-open offensive setups with razzle-dazzle plays has made him a big favorite among the avid Malvern fans.

His pride and joy is that bifocal offense, where everyone seemingly forgets the rules of conformity and lines up where he pleases. His favorite formation is a combination of an unbalanced line with two quarterbacks in actuality. On one side of the center are only an end and tackle, while the other side is stacked with two guards and a tackle with a split end.

In the backfield there is a "shortback" lining up beside the man under, and nearly every play begins with fake or handoff to him. The quarterback is Mac Stroud, a 170-pound senior who threw touchdown passes in his starting debut against Hope last season. The shortback is a swift senior named Mike McGooogan, who did some kick returning last year while playing little offense.

Rounding out the backfield at tailback is Doug Plicher, a hard-running 180-pound senior who runs on Malvern's sprint relay teams. Then out at a wingback position is the speed merchant, Cornell Williams. Already clocked in 9.6 time for the 100 yard dash, Williams has fingers of glue and a streamlined 170-pound frame that gives him bounce-off power when he is hit.

Any one with the speed of Williams, must be completely shadowed, and Bobcat monster man Jerry McWilliams will probably get that job most of the time.

The offensive line, which averages right at 195 pounds, is anchored by Joe Hobbs, a 190-pound senior who is one of the best centers around. He and Bobcat noseman Mickey Allen should have an interesting confrontation. Around him are such seniors as Chipper Phillips (220) and kicker Bruce Efrid (230), but the quickest one is Jim O'Neal, a 215-pounder who was outstanding for the Leopards on defense last year.

On that forgotten left side, Rodney Petty (185) is a fine receiver at end, and the tackle is junior Greg Hodges, a meaty 200-pounder. Try to tell me the above figures aren't impressive, and you'll be dead wrong.

Because his offensive starters are so tough, Alpe couldn't see much need in platooning. Therefore he only has two or three who always come out when the ball changes hands, and he doesn't suffer for it. Overall, however, this year's edition of the Malvern has around 60 boys out for football.

Count Malvern off from last year, and maybe a little lazy with all that size. Count the Bobcats better prepared than the crew that fell 27-0 in Leopardland a year ago. Give either team a couple of breaks, and they'll have the game. Predicting this one has been quite hard, but the score will be ready by tomorrow.

Remember the Bobkittens' game with Camden tonight at Hammons Stadium, as the locals try to jump back on the winning band wagon. The Bobcats are hoping that the juniors win, because the seniors haven't lost yet on weeks when the Kittens were victorious. And the juniors' only loss last week coincided with the Smackover defeat the next evening.

The Kittens are ready to come back, and they should be fuming when they hit the field for the 7:30 p.m. kickoff tonight. They are also remembering last year, when they finished 2-6 after a 2-0 start. They should come out of it, although Camden is no easy touch, with victory number three.

They've got a quick defensive line and a good defensive secondary," Burnett said. "It'll be hard to move the ball against them."

The Razorbacks have beaten TCU nine straight times and Burnett said, "It'll really be a rough game. They're bound to be tired of it."

Burnett says he jumps as a last resort.

"I don't like to get off the ground unless it's absolutely necessary," he said, "although it's really not as dangerous as people think it is."

Burnett has been alternating with senior tailback David Dickey this season and he is looking forward to a tough game Saturday against Texas Christian University at Fort Worth, Tex.

STRESSING A POINT—Jerry Kramer (64, and inset), Green Bay guard, bangs a block into a Detroit Lion defensive lineman on a Packer scoring sweep. Besides his football prowess, Kramer is a new author. His recently published book, "Instant Replay," details the 1967 championship season in diary form.

Burnett Wants to Make Good on His Own

By TOMMY YATES

Associated Press Writer

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Burnett has been a familiar name with University of Arkansas football since 1965, and the name is just as popular this year because of the hurdling habits of Arkansas tailback Bill Brunett.

Burnett is a six-foot 185-pound sophomore who leaps over defending linemen in a single bound, and he seems to stay up in the air more than he's on the ground when carrying the football for the Razorbacks on Saturday.

Bill is the brother of Bobby Burnett, the Arkansas tailback who later was selected the AFL Rookie of the Year in 1966 with the Buffalo Bills, and of Tommy Burnett, a flanker who appeared briefly with the New York Jets.

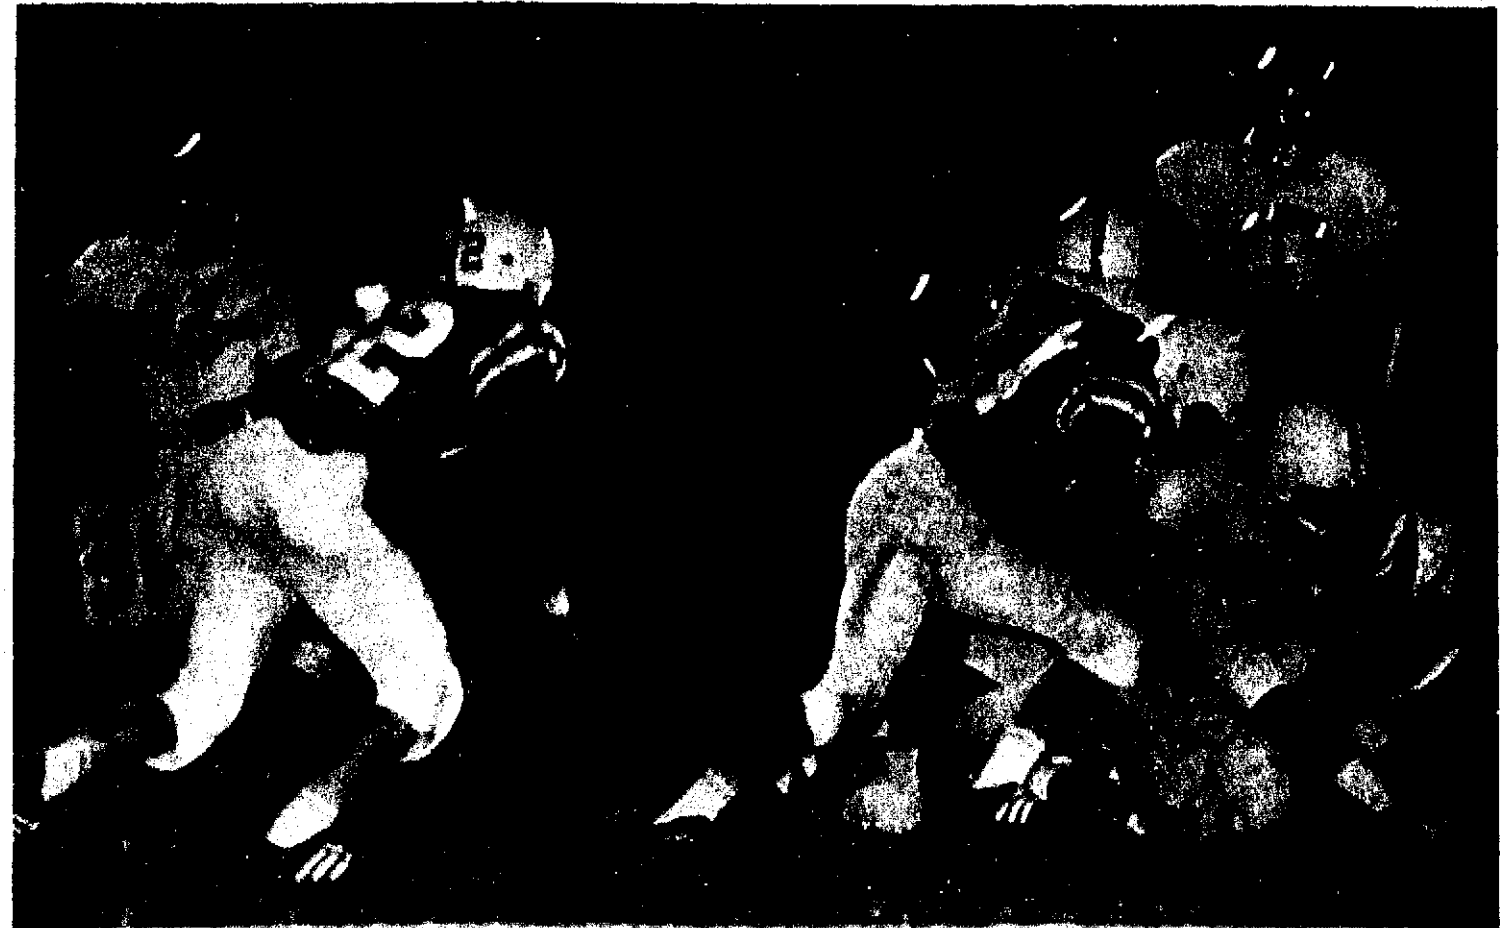

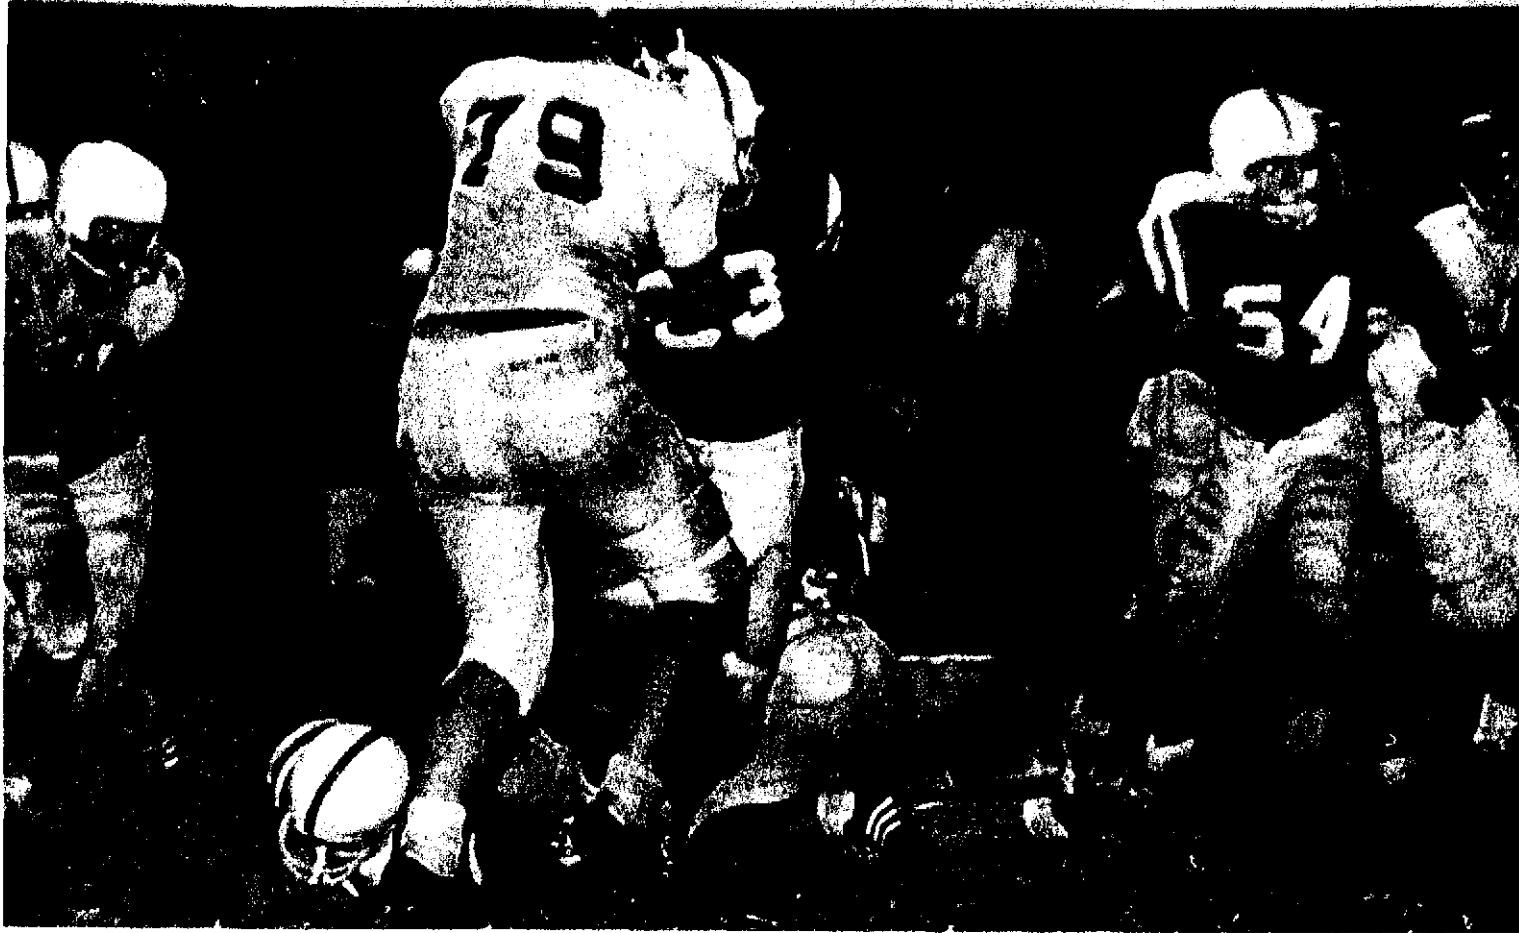

Bill does not evoke recollection of his brothers at first glance, but, perhaps, this is what drove him to his fine performances in Arkansas' two games this season.

"I wanted to prove that they didn't just take me (on scholarship) because of Bobby and Tommy," he said.

But Bill's running style is like that of Bobby's in that both used their hurdling habits to evade and get up and over defenders.

"If you can't run over or around them, then the best thing to try to do is jump over them," he said. "I

Harry Grayson

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Harry Grayson, whose formidable ebullience animated the American sports scene for half a century, died today in St. Luke's Hospital at 74. He had been ill with cancer the last year.

Harry Markey Grayson's career as a sports writer spanned the period from the Golden Twenties of Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones and Babe Ruth to the Enlightened Sixties of Willie Mays, Cassius Clay and Arnold Palmer. He knew all of them, and all the prominent athletic figures in between and wrote of them in a trenchant and provocative style.

For 30 years, until his retirement in 1964, he served as the sports editor of Newspaper Enterprise Association and the entire world of athletic competition, from a Sam Snead golf match in Israel to a Joe Louis boxing exhibition in Honolulu, was his sphere.

Grayson brought to his orbit of fun and games a personal flamboyance that was counterbalanced by sound editorial judgment and an instinct for ferreting out the news. An encounter with the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, one afternoon during spring training in Florida led to the revelation that would break up the chain system of the St. Louis Cardinals and free 125 ballplayers.

It was one of several notable coups during years as a writer and editor. His first national attention came from picking Gene Tunney to beat Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight championship of the world in 1926.

Grayson was an intimate of Dempsey and knew the champ was in no shape for a tough contender like the Fighting Marine who spouted Shakespeare. Harry himself had served in the Marine Corps during World War I.

Because of his reputation as a boxing expert, Grayson was brought to New York on April 1, 1928, to preside as the ring expert of the New York Telegram. He had been the sports editor of the San Francisco Bulletin.

Grayson began his career on the Portland Oregonian (he was born May 10, 1894, in Astoria, Ore.) and moved to Los Angeles in 1924, then to San Francisco two years later.

In New York, he demonstrated his virtuosity in every phase of sports and in 1934 he was named the head of the sports department at NEA. In that capacity, he soon solidified his right to a title hung on him in Look magazine by Tim Cohane—"The Sports Writer from Mars." Wherever the action was, Grayson was there.

In 1945, he made a two-months tour of the war zones in Europe, the Near East and Asia.

Frankie Frisch, who managed in the major leagues for 16 years, always complained that "this guy Grayson fires me every June." And yet he was a sentimentalist, too. He said college football was his favorite sport because it embodied the ideal of true amateur competition. His nephew, Bobby Grayson, had been an All-American fullback at Stanford. He also wrote a heralded series decrying the malpractice of recruiting football players.

In 1958 Grayson received the National Headliners Award for excellence as a sports columnist. He was the author of a book, "They Played the Game," based on an original series produced for NEA.

After his official retirement in the spring of 1964, Grayson continued to contribute special columns on sports to NEA as a roving correspondent. The last two years, he had wintered in Phoenix, Ariz.

He is survived by his wife, Ivy, and a son, Harry Grayson Jr.

Defends All Concrete Roads in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The chairman of the state Highway Commission Wednesday defended the use of concrete in the construction of interstate highways in Arkansas.

Armil Taylor of Clarksville said, in answer to a statement by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, that it was true that all of the interstate highways in the state had been built with concrete.

He said, however, the Highway Department must get the approval of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads on every set of plans it uses on interstate construction.

"In each case, the department has satisfied the Bureau of Public Roads that the use of concrete was justified," Taylor said.

Taylor said the federal government paid 90 per cent of the cost of building interstate highways but that the state paid all maintenance costs.

Rockefeller said Tuesday at Camden that Arkansas was the only state in which all of the interstate system had been surfaced with concrete rather than asphalt.

The governor implied in his speech that the interstate system was 100 per cent concrete because of the influence of his Democratic opponent, Marion Crank, and W. R. "Witt" Stephens.

Stephens is president of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., and Crank is a former vice president of Foreman Cement Corp., a Arkla subsidiary.

Wants Sound, Decisive Win in Vietnam

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, who has called for "a sound and decisive" U.S. military victory in Vietnam, becomes third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace's running mate today, informed sources say.

Sources close to Wallace said before the official announcement at a news conference that LeMay—the famous flying general of World War II—was the vice presidential choice.

LeMay, a former Air Force chief of staff and Strategic Air Command chief, has written he is not opposed to use of nuclear weapons although he does not believe they would be needed in Vietnam.

He said in his recent book "America is in Danger" that a Korea-like settlement in Vietnam is unthinkable.

"The virus of communism will continue to spread throughout Southeast Asia" with such a settlement, LeMay wrote, "because we failed to administer a sound and decisive defeat to its organized propagators."

Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon carried his campaign into the South, meanwhile, and said the solution of American problems "isn't quite so simple" as Wallace implies.

Chiding Wallace's comment he would round up federal bureaucrats and throw their briefcases into the Potomac, Nixon said in Norfolk, Va., he wished answers were so easy.

"I wish I could just stand up here and say 'Well, if a man for peace elect him president,'" Nixon added. "I know that everybody likes a simple solution, and believe me I want to be elected."

But he said there are no simple solutions.

A major effort in Nixon's southern tour is to be a television broadcast tonight from Atlanta, Ga., into Wallace's home state of Alabama and 10 other southern states.

Democratic candidate Hubert H. Humphrey, who concentrated his political guns on Wallace during a southern tour earlier this week, turned them back on Nixon today in Welch, W. Va.

He said Appalachia—for which he said the "Nixon-Republican administration" did nothing—is overcoming ills with federal programs approved under succeeding Democratic administrations.

"It won't take long for the Nixon-Agnew team to fear these things down if they win in 1968," Humphrey said. He added that 81 per cent of the Republicans in the House and 58 per cent in the Senate voted against the Appalachia Act of 1965.

Humphrey's running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, appealed to a crowd of fellow Polish-Americans in Chicago Wednesday to reject Wallace's law-and-order message. It "would be the end of what our people came to America for," Muskie said.

"Freedom—freedom—freedom—that's what our people came here to get," Muskie said, "and that's what we're going to fight for in this election campaign."

Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the GOP vice presidential candidate, said meanwhile, his call for increased wiretapping to combat organized crime does not indicate a change from pre-

Missile Plan Assured by Senate Vote

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has virtually assured construction of the $5 billion Sentinel antiballistic missile system by rejecting the fourth attempt this year to block funds for the project.

An attempt failed 45 to 24 Wednesday to cut $387.4 million in Sentinel funds from the $71.9 billion defense appropriations bill.

The defense measure, facing various statements he is against wiretapping "in any form."

Agnew said in Annapolis, Md., he believes wiretapping controlled by court order can be a useful tool, but remains opposed to its unrestrained use by local police as a "fishing expedition" for criminal evidence.

In other political developments:

—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's wife, Joan, campaigned for reelection of Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., Wednesday reminding some Indiana audiences that Bayh pulled "my Ted" from the gasoline-soaked wreckage of a plane in 1964.

—A three-judge federal panel has ruled Communist party presidential candidate Charlene Mitchell and her running mate cannot be kept off Minnesota's November ballot under terms of the 1951 federal Communist control act.

—Humphrey's campaign manager, Lawrence F. O'Brien, says private polls show the Democrat leading in eight states with 136 of the 270 electoral votes needed for election: Connecticut, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Texas.

Griffin Had Help of Southerners

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert P. Griffin, the man who sparked the fight that blocked confirmation of Abe Fortas as chief justice, is a back-row senator who backed President Johnson, leaders of his own party and the nation's legal establishment.

Not that the 44-year-old Michigan Republican, first elected to the Senate two years ago, claims a single-handed victory in forcing Johnson's withdrawal of the nomination Wednesday, at Fortas's request.

Griffin readily acknowledges that the help of GOP colleagues as well as support from Southern Democrats was essential to bringing about the defeat of a nominee for chief justice for the first time since 1795.

Nonetheless, it was the unimposing, soft-spoken senator who spearheaded the drive who turned up much of the ammunition for the opposition.

An example: Griffin got "a blind call" tipping him to the fact that Fortas was paid $15,000 for lecturing at a summer law school seminar out of $30,000 in donations solicited by a former law partner, Paul A. Porter, from five men with far-flung business and financial interests.

He still doesn't know who made the call.

This was said by many senators to have seriously damaged the appointment's chance.

What first started Griffin off was a newspaper item last June 14 saying that Chief Justice Earl Warren "... may quit before President Johnson's term runs out. Reason: He hopes to have a voice in selection of his successor."

Griffin says his reaction, as a lawyer, was that "That's none of Warren's business."

A week later, before Warren's intention to retire was officially known and before Fortas's nomination was submitted, Griffin possible final vote today after action on an amendment by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., to cut the bill by 10 per cent, is the largest single money proposal ever to come before the Senate.

Even Sentinel critics conceded before Wednesday's vote that failure to delay the project now would make it impossible to stop the defense system from being deployed unless the United States and Soviet Union reach an early agreement to control missile programs.

A rare 2½-hour secret session preceded the vote on Sen. John Sherman Cooper's amendment to cut procurement and deployment funds for Sentinel from the defense appropriations bill.

The Senate also overwhelmingly defeated two of Clark's amendments Wednesday, one to block funds for the Semi-Automatic Ground Environment System and the Airborne Warning and Control System and the Airborne Warning and Control System, the other aimed at limiting helicopter production.

Only five other senators backed the Pennsylvania Democrat as he lost 60 to 6 on the SAGE-AWACS amendment, and only Sen. Le Metcalf, D-Mont., joined him on the 65-2 vote against his helicopter proposal.

Although the bill carries a total of $700.2 million for the Sentinel, including $312.8 million in research and development funds that Cooper's amendment would have spared, Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said during the open portion of the debate that only $70 million would be spent in the current fiscal year, the rest in future years.

However, Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford has already announced that the Pentagon will press forward with Sentinel, exempting it from the $6 billion spending cut ordered by Congress last spring when it voted the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Cooper called for the closed session so that detailed, classified questions could be asked by opponents of the project.

The last such secret session was on July 14, 1966, when the Senate was considering its watchdog procedures for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Both Cooper and supporters of Sentinel agreed during the debate that it is intended to be the first stage of a defense against possible Soviet missile attack, as well as to provide a defense against a possible Chinese attack.

The full anti-Soviet system has been estimated at $30 billion to $40 billion. But Cooper said testimony this year before the Senate Appropriations Committee indicated the eventual cost might be closer to $70 billion.

No decision has yet been made to proceed with the full ABM system.

HOPE (ARK) STAR, Printed by Offset made a brief Senate speech saying that "I shall not vote to confirm an appointment of the next chief justice by a lame duck President."

In an interview in his office Wednesday, Griffin said that at the time "I didn't think of winning or losing. I just decided that on the basis of the apparent political motives involved, I wasn't going to vote for any nominee."

At a Senate Republican Policy committee luncheon after his Senate speech, Griffin said, he found quite a few of his GOP colleagues agreed.

Griffin and California Sen. George Murphy then circulated a statement declaring the filing of any Supreme Court vacancies should be left to the next president and pledging to oppose any nominees submitted by Johnson in the closing months of his administration.

The statement, signed by 18 of the 36 Republican senators, was issued on June 26 shortly after Johnson announced Warren's intent to retire and his nomination of Fortas, an old friend and advisor, to succeed him. At the same time federal Judge Homer Thornberry, another old friend of Johnson's, was nominated to replace Fortas as an associate justice.

Griffin denounced the appointments as examples of "cronyism at its worst" and renewed

16,000 Air Guardsmen to Be Released

By FRED HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force will release about 16,000 Air National Guardsmen and reservists from active duty by next summer. But the Army says it still needs the 20,000 men it called up to support the Vietnam War.

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford announced Wednesday his objection to nominations by a "lame duck" president.

But as the controversy went on, he said, senators ended up with "a basketful" of other reasons for opposing Fortas's confirmation. No vacancy existed because of the circumstances of Warren's retirement, the court's decisions were wrong in the fields of crime and pornography, the $15,000 lecture fee, and testimony that Fortas had continued to serve as an adviser to Johnson after going on the court as an associate justice in 1965.

Griffin, regarded as a political moderate, left the attacks on the court's decisions to other senators. He said that for the most part he is in agreement with its rulings.

night that some Air Guard and reserve units and individuals will be released before January, the remainder in April, May and June.

However, Clifford warned the plans "could be changed, of course, if unforeseen circumstances arise."

He did not spell out what those circumstances might be but he obviously meant some new crisis at least as grave as the North Korean capture of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo and last winter's enemy offensive in South Vietnam.

Those developments resulted in a two-stage muster of some 38,000 Air Force, Navy and Army reservists and Guardsmen in late January and Mid-May. They were subject to up to two years in uniform.

By releasing the 16,127 Air Guardsmen and reservists gradually over the next nine months, the Air Force said it will be able to replace demobilized pilots and navigators from its training program and by what it calls "personnel management."

Among those to be released is Airman 1C Patrick J. Nugent, son-in-law of President Johnson. He has been in Vietnam since April.

Replacements for the demobilized citizen-airmen will have to come from the ranks of the regular Air Force.

Faubus Would Have Joined Wallace

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Wednesday he had urged third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace to select a running mate from another part of the country.

Faubus said, however, he had told Wallace to "come back to me if he needed me."

The former governor said he understood that Wallace would announce today that he had chosen retired Air Force Gen. Curtis LeMay as his vice presidential choice. Speculation has centered on LeMay.

Faubus confirmed Wednesday that he had talked with Wallace about the vice presidency. "Yes, I talked with him and I urged him to get someone from another part of the country and come back to me if he needed me," Faubus said in an interview.

Asked why he was supporting Wallace, Faubus said:

"In this particular area of the country, sentiment is with Wallace. No one can do anything good in trying to carry this state for the national Democratic presidential ticket. I think it would be a good thing

Thursday, October 3, 1968

If George Wallace were elected president."

In the past, Faubus had been noncommittal about whether he supported Wallace, although he introduced the former Alabama governor in glowing terms when Wallace appeared in Little Rock last month.

Faubus is scheduled to campaign for Wallace this weekend at a rally sponsored by the Wake Forest, N.C., Chamber of Commerce. Faubus is to be the keynote speaker at a Wallace rally Monday in Columbia, S.C., and is to speak at a fund-raising luncheon for Wallace Oct. 11 in Hot Springs.

Denies Charge Eye Service Is Dropped

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Welfare Director Len Blaylock Wednesday denied a charge that the remedial eye service program had been dropped.

Marion H. Crank, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, made the charge in a campaign speech Tuesday. Crank also said the Welfare Department had stopped paying the $3 monthly premium to medicare for elderly citizens on welfare.

The candidate acknowledged that he had been critical of the welfare program under Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller since he entered the Democratic gubernatorial primary last May.

"At first, I drew some pretty heated denials from our administration but when they learned I wasn't just talking off the top of my head but had the facts, we haven't heard much from them, have we?" Crank said Tuesday.

Blaylock answered Wednesday, saying, "For years the entrenched politicians have used the welfare program to perpetuate their way in office."

Blaylock said the $3 medicare payment had never been dropped by the department and, in fact, had been increased to $4. He said there was concern last December during an acute money shortage in the department that the payment might have to stop.

He said the remedial eye service also hasn't been stopped but had been "drastically changed." He said the eye program is now being paid for by federal funds in every way possible.

Blaylock said welfare benefits had increased during the Rockefeller administration without any tax increase.

"Being a member of the 'old guard' political establishment, it was typical that Marion Crank would use a good part of his TV appearance to play on the emotions of the persons dependent on welfare," Blaylock said.

"He (Crank) made indefinite insinuations about vague generalities," Blaylock said. "Mr. Crank rarely seems to be definite about anything."

Plane Hits Studio, Only Pilot Killed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A single-engine plane slammed into a 20th Century-Fox studios building Wednesday, near the sets for the movie "Hello, Dolly!" and the television series "Peyton Place," where scores of production workers were on the job.

The plane's pilot, Walter Kaufman, 63, of Pacific Palisades, was killed. No other serious injuries were reported.

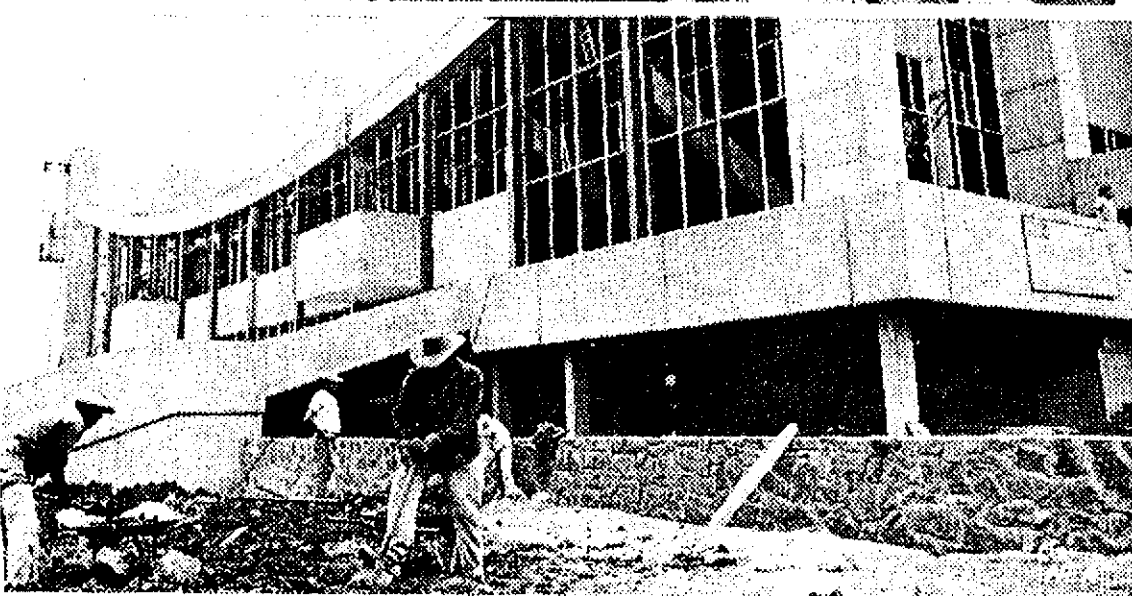

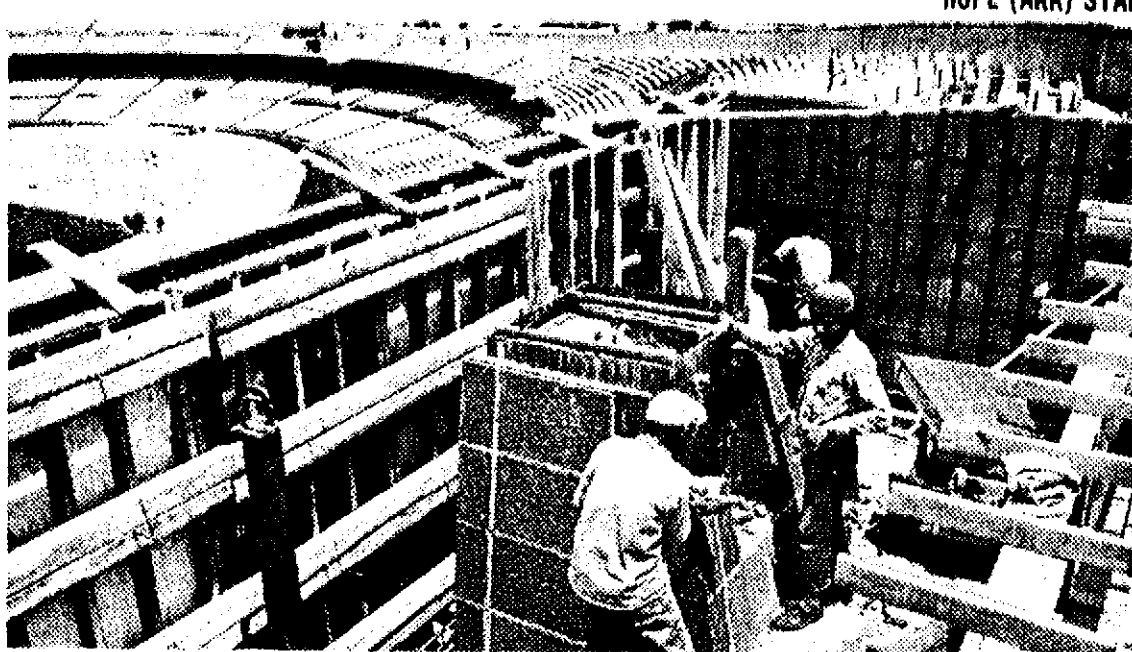

Witnesses said Kaufman was alone in the four-seat aircraft, apparently trying to land at Santa Monica Municipal Airport four miles to the west.

After missing the runway, the plane swung back over west Los Angeles and hit near the third floor of the film company administration building, then fell in flames.

Hundreds of persons were inside the building.

The explosion knocked producer Sy Bartlett off the sidewalk. As he rolled under a car to dodge falling debris, the plane's landing gear fell on top of the car.

About 40 children and parents were in the studio's casting office on the ground floor, trying out for roles in the television series, "Nanny."

WORKMEN rush to complete Olympic sites for the October games. Top photo shows platform being constructed at the Olympic Stadium. In bottom picture, workmen prepare area in front of the modernistic Olympic swimming pool.

VISITORS to Mexico City for the Olympics will find other attractions nearby, such as the country's famous pyramids. Here, the Pyramid of the Moon dominates the scene at San Juan de Teotihuacan, where a civilization flourished more than 2,600 years ago.

Denies Giving Permission to Use Plane

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Gov. John McKeithen has ordered an investigation into who authorized the use of his turboprop airplane by Ernest M. Bartlett, head of the bankrupt Arkansas Loan & Thrift Corp.

AL&T is the parent firm of the Louisiana Loan & Thrift Corp., which is also in bankruptcy. Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion received a legal fee from LL&T and later issued a favorable attorney general's opinion.

McKeithen, mentioned by Bartlett in a deposition during federal receivership proceedings as being connected with LL&T, has continually denied any connection with the company.

It was disclosed Wednesday, however, that Bartlett and a woman friend were flown to the Lafayette Airport and dropped off on Sept. 7, 1967 as the only passengers on McKeithen's plane.

Only one engine was cut to fire on the ground floor, trying out for roles in the television series, "Nanny."

Commissioner Hassle Is About Over

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The hassle over selection of third members to county Boards of Election Commissioners in 16 counties was resolved Wednesday night.

The Republican and Democratic members of the state Board of Election Commissioners, meeting at the governor's mansion, made 13 new appointments and let stand three appointments made by the Democratic members of the board at a prior meeting.

The counties in which the appointments were left alone were Conway, Faulkner and Prairie. Appointments in those counties are being contested by the Republicans in a suit that will be heard Monday in Pulaski County Circuit Court.

Members of the state board agreed that the courts should decide the three.

Under the agreement reached Wednesday night, the Republicans withdrew their objections to one Democratic appointee, the Democrats accepted nine Republican choices and the board agreed on the names of three persons nominated by ministers.

Both sides said they had obtained resignations or would obtain the resignations of persons they had appointed earlier, clearing the way for agreement.

In an earlier move to settle the dispute, the state board asked ministers in each of the 75 counties to nominate third members of their county election commissions.

The Democrats, however, ignored some of those persons nominated by the ministers and pushed through their own choices. The Republicans on the board protested that the selections in the 16 counties weren't representative of the Republican party.

Under law, the state GOP is the majority party and it contends that it should appoint the third member of county commissions. The state Supreme Court held in a suit brought by the Republicans that the third member has only to "represent" the majority party and not necessarily be a member of the party. The other two members of each county commission are the chairman of the Republican and Democratic county committees.

Ozell Pollard of Searcy, chairman of the state Republican party and a member of the state board, said that of all the 16 appointments made by the Democrats, the three in Faulkner, Conway and Prairie counties were the least qualified.

Pollard said, however, he would agree to let their appointments stand in view of the pending court action.

This prompted Secretary of State Kelly Bryant, a Democrat, to rise on a point of person privilege. He objected to what he called "over exaggerated" remarks and "insinuations" by Pollard that the three weren't qualified.

Pollard said he couldn't see any useful purpose in trying to get the board to reject the appointees in the three counties.

"Rather than have a big disturbance, we're not going to bring it up," Pollard said. "We'll let the court settle it Monday."

The board also filled a vacancy on the Monroe County commission, appointing Glen Fuller.

The 13 names agreed to and the counties that were in dispute are:

Barnes Hampton, Arkansas; Mrs. H. R. Sullivan, Clark; George Cook, Clay; Jerry Davis, Drew; Cline Pile, Franklin; Harley Woodside, Greene; Richard D. Robertson, Lincoln; J. M. Park, Lonoke; Melburn Samuels, Madison; William Roberts, Miller; J. E. Murphy, Poinsett; Richard Butler Jr., Pulaski; and Mrs. Frank Humphreys, Union.

Promotes Campaign With Product

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Thomas C. Maloney, a Democratic candidate for City Council, is promoting his campaign with a product developed by Russell W. Peterson, Republican candidate for governor.

Maloney hands out plastic-imprinted paper cards which read "I bet you can't tear this card...but you can vote for Tom Maloney."

Maloney said Wednesday he handed one to Peterson, and the Du Pont Co. executive and gubernatorial candidate said: "I helped develop this stuff, but I never thought a Democrat would figure out a way to use it to get votes!"

position of socialism in the world is tantamount to increasing the danger of a new world war."

Gromyko said the paramount world problem today is arms control and disarmament because "it is ignoramuses or mere adventurers alone who can be unaware of the implications of a military clash between the two great social systems."

We are convinced that it is necessary to set up obstacles in order to slow down and arrest the rushing flood of armaments, and after that to start moving toward arms reductions and toward elimination of all means of warfare," he said.

Stressing the need for continued arms talks, he declared: "We are for friendship with the peoples of North America, including the people of the U.S.A., who will always remember, as we will, the traditions of joint struggle in the ranks of the anti-fascist coalition and who also shoulder a tremendous responsibility for the preservation of world peace."

He renewed the Kremlin's attacks on West Germany, charging that, "There are politicians in Bonn who would like to recarve the map of Europe."

Registration of Negroes 75 Per Cent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The executive director of the Arkansas Council on Human Relations, said Wednesday he felt there was a move among Negroes in Arkansas to register so they could vote against George C. Wallace, the third party presidential candidate.

"If we are going to keep this man from even making a good showing, we are going to have to go to the polls," Elijah Coleman, ACHR director, said.

Coleman didn't quote any figures but said that the Negro voter registration at Pine Bluff and Little Rock was the best ever.

Meanwhile, voter registration workers say that about 75 per cent of the more than 192,000 eligible Negro voters in the state will be registered in time for the Nov. 5 general election.

The Voter Education Project of Little Rock figures for June showed that 62.8 percent of the Negro voting age population had been registered.

Sextuplets Keep Frail Hold on Life

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—Five squalling infants, survivors of Britain's first sextuplets, kept a frail hold on life today on an hourly diet of sugared water. Doctors gave them an even chance of lasting through their first critical week.

The babies came to Mrs. Sheila Thorns in three minutes Wednesday—her 30th birthday. She had taken a fertility drug after 10 years of childless marriage.

Four girls and two boys, ranging in weight from two to three pounds, were delivered by caesarean section at Birmingham Maternity Hospital. One girl, the last to be born, died an hour later.

Lying in incubators, the five survivors were reported "yellowing their heads off." Doctors described their condition as "extremely frail but fairly satisfactory."

Mrs. Thorns, weak but well, named the babies Lynne, Ian, Julie, Susan and Roger in order of their birth. She has spent the last 23 weeks in the hospital but learned only in August that six babies were on the way.

Work in India

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An 89-year-old Los Angeles widow leaves for India today to resume work she took up 15 years ago at the request of the Indian leader, Mohandas Gandhi.

Welthy Honsinger Fisher said Tuesday at a news conference that she will return to Literacy House in the state of Uttar Pradesh to help train teachers to work with Asian illiterates.

Mrs. Fisher began teaching in Haverstraw, N.Y., in 1903 and later taught in China, England and France before settling in India in 1920. There she met and married Frederick Bohn Fisher, Methodist bishop of Calcutta and Burma.

Burglary Solved In Stomach

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police said they found evidence of a burglary in Clarence Mason's stomach. He and Ronald Skaggs were booked on suspicion of burglary after their arrest near a home where $700 in clothing and jewelry was taken. All the loot but a gold ring was recovered. An X-ray examination disclosed the ring and Mason confessed to swallowing it.

let the passengers off. The deal signifying the governor's office was hidden by a piece of cardboard. Bartlett then chartered a plane and was flown to New Orleans.

WIN AT BRIDGE
Losing Count Loses Match
By Oswald and James Jacoby

Q—What causes sinus head colds? I have had one for two years and it won't clear up. How can I get rid of it?
A—Every head cold (a virus disease) involves the nasal sinuses. Other causative factors include allergy, excessive smoking and smog. When sinusitis becomes chronic, it is hard to get rid of. It may be necessary to have an operation to re-establish free drainage. A nose and throat specialist should be consulted if the usual remedies don't help you.

Q—Could a chronic sinusitis cause soreness to touch in the side of my face? My face is usually tense.
A—Although an acute sinusitis would cause tenderness over the involved sinus, it would also cause fever and general debility. In the absence of fever, the muscular tension you say you have is the more likely cause. Although it may be difficult at first, you must learn to relax.

Q—Would catarrh cause bad breath, especially in the morning?
A—Catarrh is a term that has been largely abandoned by doctors. What is usually meant is an inflammation of the nasal sinuses with the production of mucus and tissue cells in an infected sinus is one of many causes of halitosis.

Q—Following an attack of sinus trouble six months ago, I lost my sense of smell. Will it ever come back?
A—Not until the inflammation in your nasal tissues has been eliminated.

Q—Would a cyst or growth in my sinus cause me to have a bad taste in my mouth?
A—Yes, if it is associated with a chronic infection.

Q—How effective is wearing a face mask for preventing the spreading of colds?
A—This procedure is not very effective and has the disadvantage of giving you a false sense of security. Avoidance of contact, insofar as possible, is the best means of preventing the spread of a cold.

Q—I take Hydopres for high blood pressure. It is said to deplete the body's potassium. My last potassium blood level was 4. Is that low? What should I take to build it up?
A—Your level is within the normal range—3.5 to 5. If your level should drop below 3.5, eating foods rich in potassium, such as Brazil nuts, bananas, oranges, peaches and apricots, is preferable to taking potassium salts.

Buffalo Invitation; Chancellor

Editor The Star: Knowing that you are vitally interested in the Buffalo River vs. National Park issue, we cordially extend to you an invitation to attend the Buffalo River Landowners Association meeting at the Hasty schoolhouse, Hasty, Ark., Oct. 11, 1968, at 7:30 p.m.

We expect an overflow crowd of news media, Washington personnel, and the Buffalo River Landowners will be present in a majority, of course, to defend their life-and-death struggle to save their homes and lands.

Please advise by return mail if you will be able to attend this meeting. Sincerely

GEORGE A. VIOREL
Chairman, Buffalo River
Landowners Ass'n

Sept. 30, 1968
Hasty, Ark. 72640

We are on opposing sides of the Buffalo River argument — The Star favors a national park, fought the late lamented Gilbert Dam proposal; the landowners want a dam, reject the park idea — but we do appreciate their invitation.

We can't accept, owing to distance and time, Hasty is midway between Jasper, on State Highway 7, and St. Joe on U.S. 65. It's on a local road connecting with U.S. 65 at Western Grove. I know about the distance because I came through all the U.S. 65 towns when returning from Lake Taneycomo, Missouri, just before Labor Day — and Hasty is a long haul from Hope, believe me.

Nevertheless, anything about the Buffalo River is prime news, and we'll guarantee The Star will get a report on the Hasty meeting, either from the Associated Press or a special dispatch from one of the North Arkansas papers having a correspondent on the scene.

Editor The Star: Upon returning from the Kiwanis district convention at Jefferson City, Mo., I read in The Star that there would be no contest in court about County Clerk (Mrs.) Pat McCain's determining that the local option petition was "sufficient" to have the matter placed on the general election ballot in Hempstead County.

If there had been court action it would have been before Judge Willis Smith, now presiding over Hempstead county chancery matters.

However, when it appeared that I would preside over such a court action (which did not materialize) in Polk county I carefully went over Mrs. McCain's procedure in handling this important matter. I was greatly impressed with her thoroughness, sincerity, and firmness, and publicly commend her for the efficient way in which she handled this entire matter. Respectfully submitted

Cold Moving Into Arkansas by Friday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold temperatures are moving into the state through Friday with lows expected to dip to the upper 30s in the northwestern portion. Skies are expected to clear during the period.

A Canadian high pressure system forging southeastward is dumping the cold air into the southern part of the nation.

However, low temperatures this morning were relatively mild, ranging from 50 degrees at Harrison to 70 at Texarkana and Little Rock.

High temperature Wednesday ranged from 82 degrees at Walnut Ridge to 92 at Fort Smith.

Arkansas Is War Victim

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department listed Army Pfc. Chester McDaniels, 21, as missing in action in the Vietnam war.

U.S. Base Hit Hard by Enemy

By GEORGE ESPEK
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy forces slammed more than 100 rounds of mortar shells into a U.S. base protecting Saigon's northwestern flank today, then sent a platoon of infantrymen firing into it in an apparent effort to test the American defenses.

The enemy troops pulled back after an hour of fighting, leaving 13 dead on the battlefield 14 miles northwest of Saigon. Four Americans were reported wounded.

Earlier, South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 22 enemy soldiers a mile away from the American base. The government soldiers also seized a 75mm recoilless cannon, a bazooka rocket launcher, two assault rifles and a quantity of mines and ammunition. No government casualties were reported.

Fighting hit its lowest level in a week, and U.S. officers said that enemy is scaling down his efforts in some areas.

The slowdown was reflected in the weekly casualty report issued by the U.S. Command. Headquarters said 247 Americans were killed in action during the seven-day period ending at midnight last Saturday. This was a drop of 43 from the previous week. South Vietnamese casualties also dropped, from 473 killed two weeks ago to 316 dead last week. Enemy casualties were put at 2,866 compared with 3,380 the week before.

Allied troops continued to uncover huge weapons and food stockpiles, adding to the more than 100 tons of supplies they seized from the enemy last month. These seizures apparently either delayed or canceled planned enemy attacks.

In the air war, headquarters announced the loss of the fourth American plane over North Vietnam in the past five days, raising the toll to 903 in more than 3½ years of bombing.

Auto Theft Fight Against Poverty

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Police Director Ralph Scott Wednesday called automobile theft "the greatest single crime against property."

Scott said it frequently started juveniles "into a life of crime."

Scott spoke at a civic club meeting here where he presented a program to combat automobile theft.

He said a successful prevention campaign would have great impact on the total crime problem, since the first step in many crimes of violence is the theft of a car.

One of Life's Little Ordeals Is Imperfect Memory for Names

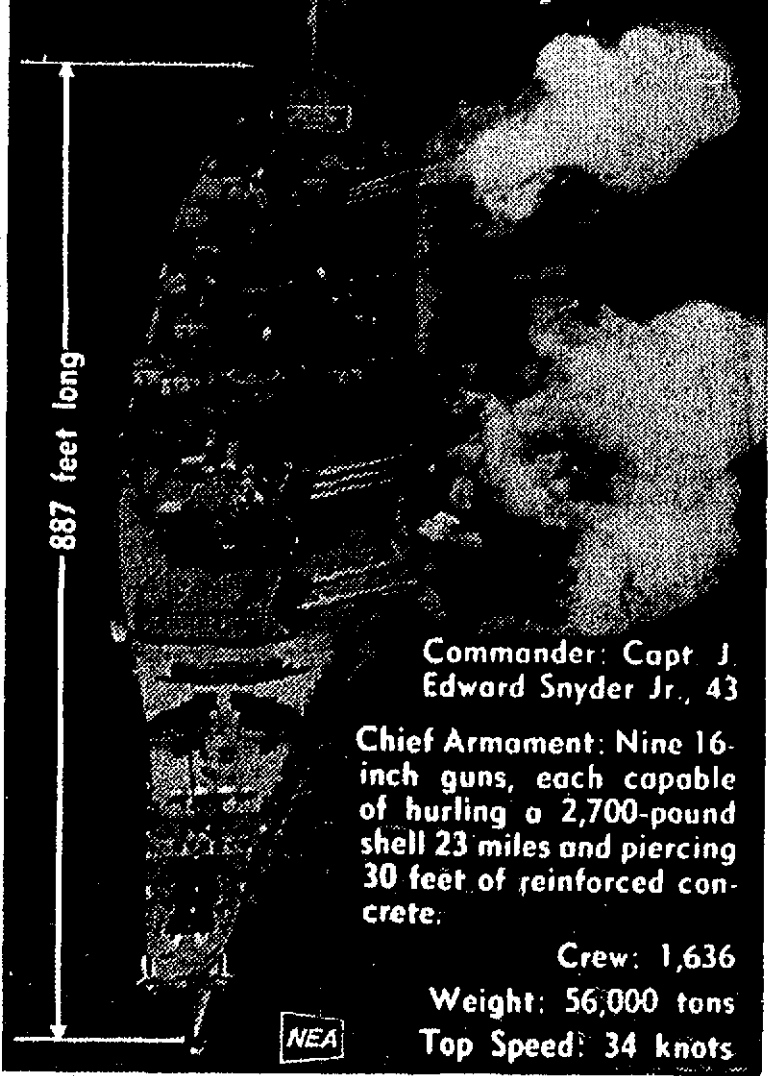

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is having an imperfect memory for names.

Most of us are in this plight. We rather envy people like former Postmaster General James A. Farley, the sprightly octogenarian who has the reputation of never forgetting the identity of anyone he has ever met. It is said of Jim that he even had a prenatal memory, and that immediately after birth he handed the doctor a cigar and called the surprised medic by his first name.

Such powers of total recall, cultivated by politicians and salesmen, are beyond most of us. What feeble memory we do have seems to desert us in an emergency. If asked unexpectedly to introduce his own mother, many a man stutters and murmurs, "I'd like you to—uh—meet—uh—Mama." Under such stress he not only can't remember his mother's name — he can forget his own.

Chief Armament: Nine 16-inch guns, each capable of hurling a 2,700-pound shell 23 miles and piercing 30 feet of reinforced concrete.

Crew: 1,636

The battleship New Jersey, America's mightiest warship and the only battlewagon in the world on active duty, is now serving in Vietnam. Launched Dec. 7, 1942, it saw World War II and Korean conflict service, winning 13 battle stars before being decommissioned. Recently reactivated, the great battleship went into action against North Vietnamese positions above the Demilitarized Zone. In 3½ minutes, the New Jersey can equal the destruction of 60 bombing planes.

Wants to Know Where Demonstration Leaders Got Their Riot Money HHH Goes Into West Virginia

By TOM SEPPY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yippee leader Abbie Hoffman was arrested today when he showed up at a House office building to attend a meeting of the Committee on Un-American Activities wearing an American flag designed as a shirt.

Arrested with Hoffman were his wife, Anita, and another Yippee — Youth International Party — Brad Fox, all of New York City.

Capitol police charged Hoffman, who has been subpoenaed by the committee investigating the disorders during the Chicago Democratic National Convention, with mutilating the American flag and resisting arrest.

His wife was arrested when she attempted to stop her husband from being dragged into a patrol wagon by several policemen.

Police arrested Fox when they saw him letting the air out of a tire in the patrol wagon holding Hoffman.

The committee was meeting in executive session at the time of the arrests. The Hoffmans and Fox were among a small group of Yippies that milled around outside the building

Invasion to Be Staring Success

WELCH, W. Va. (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey returns today to the villages and craggy hills of West Virginia where he fought the late John F. Kennedy in the presidential primary eight years ago — and lost.

The Democratic presidential nominee makes a marathon motorcade through 29 towns and cities carrying this message: "In 1960 a cold-hearted Nixon Republican administration sat in Washington and cared nothing for West Virginia and did nothing for the people of Appalachia."

"Yes, John Kennedy and I came to West Virginia in 1960. We made promises and in the last eight Democratic years we kept these promises."

When Humphrey was making those promises eight years ago he was campaigning along the narrow roads in a cold, beat up bus.

Today the vice president flew from Charlotte, N.C., to Bluefield, W. Va., with a fleet of five prop planes for the 122-mile motorcade through such towns as

Farmers Can Graze Acreage Diverted

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1968 annual feed grain and cotton acreage diversion program now may graze this acreage without losing program benefits, R.B. Arnold, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has announced.

The starting date for such grazing was October 1, making the end of the period during which the no-grazing provision was in effect.

This provision does not apply to acreage diverted under long-term land utilization programs such as the Conservation Reserve and the Cropland Adjustment program.

County farms participating in the 1968 commodity diversion programs number about 275.

War Deaths Drop Some During Week

By STRATFORD C. JONES
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Combat deaths in the Vietnam war dropped slightly last week, reflecting another of the periodic slowdowns in ground fighting across the country.

The U.S. Command, in its weekly summary today, reported 247 Americans killed in action in the week ending last Saturday. A week earlier 290 Americans were killed. There were 1,779 Americans wounded last week with 818 hospitalized compared with 1,762 wounded a week earlier.

The summary said the latest casualty counts raised to 28,458 the number of Americans killed in the war since Jan. 1, 1961.

The number of wounded climbed to 178,235. Another 1,203 Americans are listed as missing, captured or interned.

South Vietnamese casualties last week were 316 men killed, 1,230 wounded and 32 missing. Vietnamese headquarters reported. This also was a decrease from the 473 killed, 1,262 wounded and 35 missing a week earlier.

The weekly summary said 2,866 enemy troops were killed last week, compared with 3,380 the week before.

The U.S. headquarters report said the number of enemy killed in the period from Jan. 1, 1961, through Saturday climbed to 402,102.

The total of U.S. military personnel in South Vietnam as of Saturday was 538,500, the same as the previous week, headquarters reported.

20 Killed in Mexico Student Rebellion; Olympics Endangered

By STRATFORD C. JONES
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican army troops silenced sniper guns early today in the bloodiest battle yet of Mexico City's student rebellion. Tanks patrolled downtown streets of the capital, due to become host Oct. 12 to the Olympic Games.

Police and hospitals reported 25 persons were killed in an hours-long exchange of fire set off by a rifle shot, presumably aimed at a soldier, at the crowded site of an antigovernment rally Wednesday night.

Witnesses estimated more than 100 were wounded and a check of three of Mexico City's hospitals showed 72 injured had been treated.

Fresh soldiers relieved the first units before dawn in the battle zone, in and around the Plaza of the Three Cultures, an moved from building to building in the adjoining Tlatelolco apartment district to round up civilians suspected of sniping.

Bitter feeling was reflected in the reaction of a troop commander to the discovery of a number of leaflets and a paperback book on a youth who sur-

Nixon Set to Invade the South

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, preparing to invade the Southern stronghold of George C. Wallace, says the solution to America's problems "isn't quite as simple" as the third-party candidate implies.

The Republican presidential nominee, who seldom mentions Wallace by name, stages a major show in Atlanta, Ga., tonight in his drive for southern votes.

He goes on a television program to be shown in Wallace's own Alabama and 10 other states where third-party sentiment is said to be running strong.

While Nixon insists a direct campaign against Wallace would only enhance the third-party candidate's political stature, he did say, somewhat jokingly in Norfolk, Va., Wednesday night, that the former Alabama governor might run ahead of Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey.

While only a quip, it was a departure from Nixon insistence that the race is between two men, the major party nominees.

When a mention of Humphrey's name brought a few

Russia Offers Friendship Hand to U.S.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko offered a hand of friendship to the United States today and said there was no contradiction between Moscow's interest in peace and its determination to defend the interests of socialism.

The Soviet leader told the 125-nation General Assembly that the military intervention in Czechoslovakia was dictated by what that country called a threat to the socialist world and should have surprised nobody.

"The Soviet Union," he said, "deems it necessary to proclaim from this rostrum, too, that the socialist states cannot and will not allow a situation, where the vital interests of socialism are infringed upon."

He declared: "To damage the See RUSSIA OFFERS (on page eight)

But, he added, "I'm certainly not going to stand up here and tell our enemies that I advocate that in all circumstances I am not going to use nuclear weapons."

Guerrillas Want to Make Israel a Vietnam

By DENNIS NEEDLE
Associated Press Writer
AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Guerrilla fighters speak confidently of turning Israel into another Vietnam if it takes 20 years.

They claim to represent the objective of a restored Palestine in the area that is now Israel, and some of them at least seem impelled by a fanaticism spawned in the loss of a homeland. They reject in advance any Middle East settlement that provides for the continued existence of the Jewish-led state.

The best available information indicates that the guerrillas are currently about 3,000 strong, with no shortage of recruits or money to buy weapons.

Jordan officials describe them as a problem for the Arab governments. Leaders of Al Fatah, most effective of several guerrilla organizations, argue that the Arab people would overthrow any Arab government within 24 hours if it began peace talks with Israel.

Most guerrilla camps are in Jordan.

"Let King Hussein raise a finger to begin negotiations and we will cut it off," threatened one Al Fatah member. "The king would like to talk peace with the Jews but he knows he cannot."

If it came to a showdown, Jordan's army, by striking hard and fast might be strong enough to overcome guerrilla resistance. But every week the guerrillas seem to become stronger, in numbers, efficiency and firepower.

The guerrillas harbor no hopes of a quick victory over the Israelis and an Al Fatah spokesman reported boys of 9 and 10 are being trained to carry on in the years ahead.

"We are still in the first stage of a long campaign," he said. "This is the stage of hit and run. We know we are not strong enough to tackle the Israeli army in the occupied territories. We can only make life uncomfortable for them."

Vietnam is a far cry from the rocky, sun-bleached hills of Jordan, but the spokesman says:

"If the Viet Cong can defy the mightiest army on earth, how much more can we do against an Israeli army of 200,000 men?"

"The Viet Cong began just as we are. It took them 20 years to beat the French and fight the Americans to a standstill. We are prepared to fight just as long."

Al Fatah contends that Palestine was stolen from Arab owners and that the Jewish state has no right to exist. The movement's political spokesman said Al Fatah's sole intent is to "liberate" Palestine with all other political questions in abeyance until that is achieved.

Jews who lived in Palestine before 1948, when Israel was born, would be permitted to remain. Those who arrived since then would be expelled, he said.

Van Dalsem Land Deals Investigated

Purcell said in a letter to Ed Allison, a Republican candidate for land commissioner, that he would contact Allison about the study within a few days.

Allison has charged that incumbent Land Commissioner Sam Jones had improperly conveyed the land to Van Dalsem for $1.

Jones said the property was accreted Arkansas River land to which Van Dalsem was entitled.
